STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Under the provisions of sub-section (2) to section 167 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 an accused person, before he is released on bail under the said provisions, has to be produced once in every fifteen days before the Magistrate having the jurisdiction for authorising the detention of the accused person in custody.

2. The services of the most of the Policemen are utilised for escorting the accused persons from various Central Jails, District Jails in the State to the respective Courts and back, In spite of deploying the maximum number of Policemen for the purpose, due to substantial increase day by day in the number of accused persons required to be produced before the Courts, many prisoners remain in the Jails unproduced before the Courts and it is also causing much inconvenience and dislocation of work in the routine administration of the police Department.

3. Therefore, it has been decided that production of accused persons, other than those against whom evidence is being recorded, through the medium of electronic video linkage before the respective Magistrates for the purposes of remand extension would to an effective alternative in solving the incessant problem.

4. To achieve the above object in view, the Government have decided to amend the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 in its application to the State of Andhra Pradesh, suitably.

5. As the Legislative Assembly of the State was not then in session, having been prorogued and, as it has been felt necessary to give effect to the above decision immediately, after obtaining the previous instructions from the President of India as required under Article 213 (1) of the Constitution of India, the Code of Criminal procedure (Andhra Pradesh Amendment) Ordinance, 2000 (Andhra Pradesh Ordinance No.14 of 2000) has been promulgated by the Governor and the same has been published in the Andhra Pradesh Gazette on the 6th December, 2000.

6. This bill seeks to replace the said Ordinance.
